His tax planning often intersects with business structuring and succession goals.

Agricultural Law. Raised in a small town and personally involved in his family's farming operation, Travis brings firsthand knowledge to his representation of farmers and agricultural businesses. His work covers:

- Tax planning for agricultural operations
- Business entity formation and governance
- Real estate transactions and farm leases
- Contract drafting, negotiation, and dispute resolution

His deep connection to the agricultural community enhances his ability to advise clients on the multifaceted legal and business issues unique to farming.

Business & Corporate Law. Travis counsels clients on entity formation, governance, reorganization, and succession planning. He drafts and negotiates shareholder agreements, buy/sell agreements, operating agreements, and other documents tailored to closely held businesses and family enterprises.

Mergers, Acquisitions & Divestitures. Travis guides clients through all stages of business transactions—from negotiation and due diligence to documentation, closing, and post-closing integration—ensuring compliance, continuity, and protection of client interests.
